

Liberty City

A special supplement exclusively with this week's Liberty Tree 1998 commemorate Liberty City's 200th anniversary, we in The Liberty Tree's cartography department have created a map of what our magnificent city looks like today. As we approach the new millennium there are surely great things in our future. Very soon the Office of Public Works will complete the bridges that join Portland and Staunton Islands with the mainland. This is but one of many achievements we should celebrate at this moment in Liberty City's grand history.
